Record Attendance Marks Milestone 10th Anniversary for The Autumn Coin-op Show

The Autumn Coin-op Show (ACOS) 2025 concluded last week at London's ILEC Conference Centre, celebrating its 10th anniversary with the highest visitor numbers in the show's history, alongside an expanded line-up of exhibitors.

Organised by Swan Events, this year's edition once again demonstrated the importance of ACOS as a key networking and product-showcase opportunity for the UK amusements and low-stake gaming sector.

Despite a slight easing in footfall on the second day - "as can be expected," said Karen Cooke of Swan Events — the exceptionally strong turnout on Day One ensured the show delivered a year-on-year rise in total visitors.

"It was wonderful to welcome even more exhibitors this year as we celebrated our 10th anniversary, making this the biggest ACOS to date," said Karen Cooke. "That said, ACOS is designed to be compact. Our goal has always been to provide an affordable and relatively stress-free way for companies to present their products one last time before the end of the year. It's about convenience and connection - and this year truly delivered on both."

ACOS once again blended business with social networking, highlighted by the sponsored drinks reception at The Prince, kindly supported by Novomatic Gaming UK. The evening gathering once again proved popular, drawing exhibitors and guests for informal discussion and celebration.

Martin Agabeg, NSM Music, summed up the value of the show for exhibitors:

"ACOS is a great show for us. We see everyone we need to see and it's a great opportunity to get the team together before the end of the year."

With a buoyant atmosphere, strong product launches and enthusiastic engagement across both days, ACOS continues to cement its reputation as the essential pre-season event for the amusement and coin-op community.

Dates for ACOS 2026 have already been confirmed as 13th and 14th October 2026
