ACOS 2024 - A Triumph for the Coin-Op and Amusement Sectors

London, UK – October 2024: The Autumn Coin-Op Show (ACOS), held last week at the ILEC Conference Centre in Earls Court, London, was a resounding success, with over 30 industry-leading companies exhibiting their latest offerings. Organized by Swan Events, ACOS continues to draw a dedicated audience of exhibitors and visitors alike, fostering an atmosphere of industry insight, innovation, and valuable networking.

Karen Cooke, Show Organiser from Swan Events, expressed her enthusiasm: “ACOS continues to be a must-attend event for the industry, combining a preview of the latest products and services with a strong networking element that exhibitors and visitors enjoy. We are looking forward to next year’s 10th anniversary of ACOS, which will be held on October 21 and 22, 2025.”

The show’s success was evident in the feedback from exhibitors and visitors. Paisley Thompson-Bailey of Novomatic UK reflected on the vibrant atmosphere: “ACOS is just the best way to round off the year; I love it!” Similarly, Andrew Ludlow from Boomerang Digital appreciated the unique environment that ACOS provides: “I really appreciate the relaxed way I can do business here and really talk to my customers.” Bacta, the UK’s trade association for the amusement and coin-op industries, worked with ACOS as a platform to celebrate its 50th anniversary. The milestone was marked with a commemorative cake-cutting during the exhibition and their anniversary festivities continued into the popular after show Networking Party at The Prince Pub.

As ACOS 2024 wraps up, the show’s success and warm reception have set the stage for an even bigger celebration next year, marking a decade of ACOS supporting and celebrating the UK’s amusement and coin-op industries.
