The exhibition was organized by the Russian Association of Amusement Parks and Attractions (RAPPA). The general sponsor was the PAX Group of Companies. The general media partner was the magazine Attractions and Entertainment, informational partner was web-portal vtorio.com.

In total 82 companies from 8 countries took part in the exhibition!

Eleven companies participated in the exhibition for the first time!

The exhibition covered all major sectors of the modern amusement industry, including amusement rides and entertainment equipment; design solutions for parks, water parks, and entertainment centers; equipment for children's playgrounds and sports grounds; virtual and augmented reality technologies; landscape design and theming; business process automation systems; staff training and professional development programs; event organization services; food and beverage service equipment and solutions; and various other products and services for the entertainment sector. Among the regular exhibitors were well-known companies such as Game-Keeper, ATTRAPLAST, AirMir, BOLID Group of companies, PO GROS, ITALPARK, Carousel Entertainment, the Interregional Certification Center, the Factory of Attractions «Skazka», FAT (Factory of Attractions), Volgograd Attractions, Vostok Group of companies, Attractions of Russia, the AirPalace factory, and others.

Over the course of three days, RAPPA EXPO welcomed more than 2,000 professionals from 167 cities across Russia, Belarus, Kazakhstan, and China: owners and managers of amusement parks, entertainment centers, water parks, cinemas, holiday resorts, and sanatorium complexes, as well as representatives from municipal administrations and government authorities, event agencies, individual entrepreneurs, and other interested parties.

The exhibition featured an extensive business program, organized for the first time as a joint effort between RAPPA and the KRUPA park community. These events brought together over 300 amusement industry professionals.

The centerpiece of the business program was a series titled "KRUPA Speaks: DOPAMINE. EXPERIENCE. MEANING," which included an intensive strategic marketing workshop, a foresight session, a practical site visit to the TeikaBoom park, a workshop on increasing revenue, and an open "SMALL TALK" session with industry leaders.

The program also covered topics such as the comprehensive development of parks and recreational areas, automation, the implementation of artificial intelligence, the creation of tourist attractions, customer service, and the safety of amusement rides. A diverse range of formats—from expert presentations and real-world case studies to collaborative practical workshops—enabled participants to acquire actionable tools for developing their venues, exchange experience, and establish new professional connections.

Traditionally, the RAPPA Education center held an education course during the autumn exhibition, focusing on the safe and efficient operation of amusement rides and attractions.

I'd like to express my gratitude for the business forum—it was an incredibly useful event! Thank you so much!

Ruslan Samatov, PROKART, Ufa

I took part in the business forum, which was organized at a high professional level! And I completed the education course at RAAPA Education center on the safe operation of amusement equipment, receiving both a professional license and a Category 1 certificate of conformity. I also visited "Dream Island" (Ostrov Mechty)—the largest amusement park in Russia—as well as the "Orion" park at VDNH. These events provided a tremendous boost of energy; I was able to raise several complex and important issues, engage in constructive discussions, and receive feedback from experts in the amusement and cultural sectors! We are moving full steam ahead toward achieving our goals!!!
